MDC and Partners Provide Mentored Dove Hunts for First-Time Hunters

JULY 08TH 2017 BY DEE LOFLIN

MDC and Partners Provide Mentored Dove Hunts for First-Time Hunters

Dove fields around state offer opportunities to learn to hunt these migratory game birds.

Jefferson City, Missouri - Interested in dove hunting but have not yet given it a try? The Missouri Department of Conservation (MDC) -- in partnership with the National Wild Turkey Federation, Conservation Federation of Missouri, Quail Forever, Missouri Prairie

Foundation, and private landowners -- will provide mentored dove hunts for first-time hunters starting in September.

The hunts will take place on 10 fields primarily located on private land in or near the communities of Cabool, Chillicothe, Hartsville, Joplin, Lynchburg, Mokane, Mountain Grove, Paris, St. Genevieve, and Washington.

According to event organizers, there will be three hunts offered on each field, including one or two on opening day of dove season (Sept. 1) and then one or two other days. Those dates are yet to be determined.

Each field will be limited to two first-time hunters and their mentors per acre to maximize safety and provide a quality experience. Priority will be given to anyone 11 and older who is hunting for the first time. Second priority will be given to new migratory bird hunters and youths 11-15 who may have previously hunted doves.

Field assignments will be determined on a first-come-first-served basis. First-time hunters can attend multiple hunts as registration space permits.

Each participating new hunter will be assigned a mentor and are encouraged to attend a pre-hunt workshop or a hunter-education course prior to participating in a hunt. Workshops provide basic hunter safety in addition to information about dove biology and management, the importance of hunters and hunting, and the opportunity to practice shooting a shotgun.
